

KIM EDWARDS

Senior Consultant & Climate Risk Lead

Kim is an experienced lawyer, scientist and compliance professional with over 20 years of legal, risk and compliance experience. Kim worked for national law and patent attorney firms for over 10 years after starting her career in scientific research and in the medical industry. She has consulted to companies across various industries in relation to their risk and compliance for 15 years.

Kim has developed and implemented compliance programs as well as, audited, reported on and made recommendations for the improvement of, established compliance programs and operational procedures.

Kim sits on the board of a not for profit organisation where she chairs the risk and compliance committee. She is a volunteer Local Commander and Emergency Officer with NSW State Emergency Service where she is responsible for leading, planning, preparing for and managing environmental incidents.

Kim brings scientific, practical knowledge and experience to understanding and managing the environmental and climate change risks that organisations are now, and may soon, face.

Areas of Expertise

- Environmental and climate risk
- Emergency risk management
- Incident management
- Business continuity
- Legal risk assessments and management
- Compliance
- Compliance audits
- Consumer Protection
- Compliance programs

Industry Experience

- Local Government
- Financial Services
- Telecommunications
- Medical
- Legal
- Retail
- Small business

Qualifications, Education & Memberships

- Bachelor of Science (Monash University)
- Master of Applied Science (Environmental Science) (University of Sydney)
- Diploma of Law (Solicitors' Admission Board)
- Certificate IV Compliance Management (GRC Institute)
- Governance Foundations for Not-For-Profit Directors (AICD)